PUBLICATIONS

“Emotion as the categorical basis for moral thought”. Philosophical Psychology. In Press.

“Are emotions perceptual experiences of value?” Ratio. vol. 25, no. 1, 2012, 93-107

Review of Embodiment, emotion, and cognition by Michelle Maiese. Notre Dame Philosophical Reviews. 11, 2011 (Invited review)

“Serious professional misconduct and the need for an apology.” Clinical Ethics. vol. 5, 2010, 130-135

“Does decision-making capacity require the absence of pathological values?” Philosophy, Psychiatry and Psychology, vol. 16, 2009, 341-344

“Should doctors ever be professionally required to change their attitudes?” Clinical Ethics, vol. 4, 2009, pp. 67-73

“Why treating problems in emotion may not require altering eliciting cognitions.” Philosophy, Psychiatry, and Psychology, vol. 13, 2006, 237-246

“Standing up for an affective account of emotion.” Philosophical Explorations, vol. 9, 2006, 261-276