Electronic Resources
AHRC Ellen Terry and Edith Craig Database http://www.ellenterryarchive.hull.ac.uk
A descriptive catalogue of the most significant theatre archive in Britain: comprising over 20,000 documents, the papers of Ellen Terry (1847-1928) and Edith Craig (1869-1947) are owned by the National Trust and held at the National Trust property, Smallhythe Place, Kent and the British Library. This project has involved close liaison between the University of Hull, the National Trust and literary manuscripts at the British Library.

This new enhancement to the resource described above includes guidance for family history researchers and in addition to the 20,000 records it provides access to a further 15,000 freely available data sets relevant for theatre history research. The Shakespeare Train page provides a creative and engaging interaction with data on Ellen Terry’s Shakespeare tours. This interface uses googlemaps and a selection of digitized play programmes.

Usage since launch on 29 July 2016 (number of unique users and sessions (discrete periods when those users are looking at the site) has approximately doubled:
13-Dec-2015 - 28-Jul-2016: 943 users and 1,239 sessions
29-Jul-2016 - 14-Mar-2017: 1,846 users and 2,455 sessions

UK usage has risen (number of sessions) by 130% and represents over 66% of all sessions: increase in share of 16%.

Number of page views has risen by 70%:
13-Dec-2015 - 28-Jul-2016: 4,789
29-Jul-2016 - 14-Mar-2017: 8,216
